

Pards,

I woke up this morning frustrated and sad that my cowboy gear was still gathering dust. We are missing another Cascade Ghost Rider monthly match and that is just wrong. So I got to thinking. What about a virtual match? Being the match director of over 15 years, I have the keys to the scorebook. This is what I come up with...

Objective:

Reach out to the match regulars. Give us all a giggle. And defiantly, put a score on the books... even if it is a "virtual" score.

Rules of Participation:

I have selected your lowest score from each match going back six matches that each individual shooter competed. The shooter's lowest time is raw time and misses. Some shooters' lowest times had a miss. Starting with the most recent match, that lowest time is entered into stage one and continued looking back in time and filling stage times until each virtual contender has six scores. Example, Knucky McPolack had a 35.73-second time as the lowest score for his March match. That score is entered as stage one in the virtual match.

Shooter Eligibility

I went back to 2018 to get six stage times for all of the contenders listed in today's virtual match. A few shooters were close to having six matches in over the last two years. However, in an effort to keep a manageable number of shooters, I had to make a clear cutoff. Besides, 22 shooters for an April match is pretty accurate for a match in April.

Check out how you did. Good shooting (in spirit). I am very serious when I say...

I hope to see you all very soon,
